Wednesday, November 15, 2000 - 10:30 AM

To you, my dear son,

"You chose to come back on Earth, to serve this Mission thereon. Choices are made before being incarnated that prove to be fraught with consequences. This space of time is only a passage.

"While serving humanity, a Master of your level, also progresses in his own evolution; in this domain, there is an infinite spread of degrees. To serve for love's sake is the most beautiful achievement. The goal is attained; what remains to be done is that you perfect your work.

"We surround you in this accomplishment. We cannot conquer all obstacles on your behalf, but quite often, we try to make you bypass them. Difficulties partake of the challenge. Your character doesn't incline you towards renouncing. You are an action man and your divine nature deals with the rest.

"What more can be said? It is necessary to go to the end. You should recall the struggle and efforts that I had to go through to fulfil my contract. We do not doubt your capabilities. You have always managed to retrieve strength within yourself that permits you to proceed and succeed."

Babuji