To achieve perfection, the greatest humility is required. It is about true humility, without the least weakness. It is what differentiates the high level Masters from the common run of people. Their progress must be without fault, which can appear exaggerated to you, all these subtleties being incomprehensible to you. The way to go is fraught with obstacles, but they are not insurmountable. One has to know what he is exposed to, and to actually face up to things. This program should not frighten you. You are not requested anything beyond your strength, but you should know that the struggle is endless. When you are determined to make suitable efforts to go further, you will have made big strides.

"Complete acceptance is critical; you cannot be helped without it. To advance towards realization is more difficult than it seems. You did not consider it this way. You should only know that grace comes to encourage your slightest efforts, and that nobody can be expected to do the impossible."
