Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, November 1, 1998 – 10:30 a.m.

Don't dwell on what the others may think of our contacts. Our relationship is unique and can only give rise to incomprehension and envy in certain people. That is not the intended objective. By spreading these messages in a limited way, shared with selected people, they help ... such is the objective for the time being. Don't bother about human reactions. You know only too well how disappointing they are. I suffered from them myself. The essential thing is that we have this relationship. Indeed, who can really understand it? Haven't I often told you that you were privileged? Continue your path in love; you know that it opens doors.

Babuji