

Monday, December 25, 2000 - 8:00 AM

When your civilization has got over this extreme materialism, it will return to true values where spirituality will be given the emphasis it deserves. Only that dimension will be able to give solid bases again to society. Many human beings are misled; they wander aimlessly, in despair. That results in a great distress for some of them, which leads them to doing what cannot be undone. At the beginning of this century, the world is going through a transitional period. Which direction will it turn to? It will be shown in the decades to come.

"We remain confident at the end of the year; men cannot continue to wander in the darkness, indefinitely. Many of them will find the suitable spiritual way. Ours is accessible to a large number of people. It is offered to them in its simplicity and without risks of any sorts of mistakes. This time is misleading in many respects, even in this area; certain men are the prey of movements centred more on material profit than on the spiritual one. One should be able to tell the difference.

"Our candidates were not mistaken, they benefit from a simple teaching, whose actions are very clear. It is wise to know it and to thus continue on one's way in complete peace of mind."

Babuji