Thursday, January 4, 2001 - 10:00 AM

Yes, my daughter, love your Master. This scent wafts out from sincere hearts towards him. Light and darkness are side by side, and made such that life on Earth remains unstable. It goes through these opposites that govern all days and sometimes make them almost unbearable.

"My son is a lonely man, in spite of all fine feelings and love which he inspires. Wounds caused by his fellow creatures are almost unbearable, although they heighten the greatness of his mission. He knows the whole range of human feelings and he makes no mistakes about them. He can see them appearing in turn without being able to modify the characters and the behaviours. The soul coexists with human nature, which is difficult to correct.

"No achievement, if only spiritual, is easily possible. Achievement is fostered by courage, abnegation and sufferings. It is the edifice offered to the Divine, whereby only the beauty of work becomes apparent. That is the way it goes, only the purity of the edifice remains. Work towards this construction relentlessly, with faith and love, so that a rare gem can shine in the case, i.e., your own life."

Babuji