Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fourth Revelation

Sunday, January 28, 2001 - 10:00 a.m.

My dear daughter, you belong to the privileged ones who have certainties on what happens after having left the physical body. Do you realise how lucky you are? So many human beings are in the darkness of ignorance and do not foresee any way out of that. Imagine what their life can be like: often the current one may be goal-less, and, especially, without future prospects. Where are the hell and purgatory of the Christian language in such a case?

"Isn't a life without belief, faith and hope distressing? These poor souls wander in sorrow, and what they live in their mind and body, makes them sometimes turn to what you call artificial paradises. Is there anything sadder than moving forward without even suspecting that light is at the end of the tunnel and that death is a beginning!

"To know the justification of the difficulties associated with this life on Earth reduces the burden thereof. When most of the ordeals have been undergone, reasoning leads to taking stock and drawing conclusions on what the human being must undergo to advance in his evolution.

"It is not easy, even for one who has an unwavering faith, to resign oneself and always accept cheerfully all that destiny holds, let alone when this faith is non-existent."
