Why keep dwelling on the opinion of other people, aren't you satisfied with ours? You are a good medium and that is not as easy as your circle may think. You put a lot of yourself into this work and it is natural that you expressed yourself when you so wish.

"This new collection will puzzle you many times. You will have to get used to this new genre whose contents are unverifiable, and adapt yourself at all costs. We give you some time. Your helpers will support you in this new phase full of surprises. You finally resigned yourself to not doubting anymore, and yet we start again shaking you up. We have to progress in our work and you need to trust in us. That is all we can tell you about this. Do not be afraid, you receive us very well; the comments are different but you are not the cause of it. We couldn't eternally go along the same lines.

"Keep these writings for yourself, if you so wish. It is up to you but it is good to prepare open-minded people for this potential complete upheaval in future times. Some ancient civilizations have gone through similar events before they disappeared. They take place over very long periods of time and do not concern you."
