Whispers from The Brighter World

Saturday, December 19, 1998

You must realise that all these messages are not intended only for your 'little group'. Why wouldn't you want the most striking ones to be conveyed to my son? Imagine what he would say to you if he were in front of you. You would give him the whole notebook. Limit yourself to the main thing for the moment. I understand the resulting strain; get help. Use people of goodwill; your two friends (psychoanalysts) are waiting for this.

(A letter for Master has been prepared, which includes this message of December 19th, 1998, as well as the most striking excerpts, as Babuji has suggested. All this will be handed over to Chari personally by Anne-Marie, who is expected to travel to India in the following days.)
