Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fourth Revelation

Tuesday, April 17, 2001 - 8:00 a.m.

Compassion is the driving force of our action: for our Earthmen brothers, and the others on various levels of existence who are grappling with other problems of a nature quite different from those of the humans but which deserve our attention.

"There is suffering, a lot of suffering. We cannot remain indifferent to that and only relish unutterable joys and take no further interest in our brothers wherever they are.

"Compassion and love are as one. Whatever emanates from a heart attentive to his fellow man necessarily brings relief to misery, whether physical or moral. Other worlds are racked with intense moral suffering that is hard for you to imagine as it is getting more and more serious. These beings are refined to such a point that everything affects them in the depth of their existing structure, wherever they may be. This definition means nothing to you, but what other picture could you be given?

"The more subtle the suffering, the more dreadful it is. In which circumstances and which places it happens, we cannot dwell further on the issue now.

"You have only to know that suffering does not only belong to this world and that developing compassion in you is the desirable approach. By maintaining it in your heart, you contribute to this universal spiritual communion, which helps the worlds in distress."
