Sunday, January 3, 1999 - 12:00 p.m.

When you come to rejoin us, you will drink from the plain truth. Do you believe that in my lifetime on Earth, certain messages that I received would have been well perceived? Nothing can be added to that; you know it. Continue, don't change, you are our instrument. We appreciate you. We love you for what you are, therefore what more do you want? Are you satisfied now? Be assured that we understand your doubts; not many humans have this 'true' capacity to communicate with us, so never mind. Let jealous people, ignoramuses, and people of little faith talk. [Do they mean that] we would be unable to communicate certain truths, to speak about certain facts to those we have chosen? That would be sad and pathetic. Be at peace with yourself as far as all this is concerned. You will hear worse. Content yourself with looking toward us, as one looks up to the sky with hope."

Babuji