Whispers from The Brighter World

Wednesday, June 27, 2001 – 10:00 a.m.

My son is reflecting at length on this project of a meeting between you, as well as on the future of these messages. When the time comes, he will surely make the right decision.

It is a special case that has no precedent in the current context. On a lesser scale, I too received messages from the Masters, that enlightened and guided me wisely in my role.

The situation was different and less complicated than is currently the case, the Mission didn't have the same dimension at the world level.

Leave him a little time to get in contact with you, he has so many problems to deal with. Be patient, my daughter.
