A Third Revelation

Don't worry, I am here; the source has not run dry and the channel is operational. Can we revert to the usual schedule? The decision is yours. The transformation we alluded to is in the making. Genetic mutations are a scientifically recognised fact.

"A new race of individuals – more capable of coping with the conditions of existence in the future – is settling down on this Earth. Great upheavals will occur that will modify all current structures. Adapting oneself will be a question of survival. The good sense of these beings will enable them to face up to things. They will be placed in new situations; all the reference marks of the past will be swept away. Their amazing perceptions – compared to current ones – will enable them to be guided and inspired in all circumstances. A new life will have to be created on foundations that the most open minds of today would consider astounding. Thus goes evolution; a radical change is sometimes necessary when there is no alternate option. All this will not happen overnight. The fabric of a new era is being established; it is a requirement for the future of this planet. The law of evolution must manifest itself at all costs."
