Sunday, January 17, 1999 - 10:30 a.m.

Whoever we are and whatever we do, we form a big family, with all the implied differences. This requires understanding, abnegation and courage. Take your role, however small, seriously. Thus you will help him, and you will help us. Be trustful and determined. May your heart rejoice, my daughter. You are making progress as well as possible. We are happy with you. You have started to foresee the why and how of things. That's good. May this flame, which burns in you, keep illuminating those who need it! Those beings with a mission are different from one another. This is justified by the great diversity of the human multitude; each one must be able to go towards the one who is suitable to them."

The Medium: "Are you happy, Babuji, with what is happening at the ashram this weekend?"

"Yes, we are happy, even if this does not include the majority. The work being done is very good and benefits all. Be blessed, my daughters."

(11:00 a.m.)

"Even if there seems to be great insistence in this message, it is necessary. Your poor heads cluttered with a thousand things need that. Review the whole and amend where necessary."

Babuji