Whispers from The Brighter World

A Third Revelation

Saturday, July 7, 2001 - 10:00 a.m.

Earthlings must content themselves with what is within their reach. Some of them receive enlightenment, grace, which enables them to tackle some topics with greater discernment, with regard to the true nature of man. Their degree of evolution makes this possible, though they remain strangers to great truths – which anyhow would not serve the purpose of their personal work. As advanced as they may be, every individual becomes incarnate for specific reasons and he should not let himself be distracted from his objective. Too much knowledge would not help him. He must continue on his road and avoid any useless waste of time.

"The sage puts up with his fate, with what he benefits from his present life in terms of means of transformation and evolution. Each life is very rich in that sense; it gives to human beings the opportunity to progress in acceptance and for the good. Will the resulting [acquired] asset tip the scales, will the assessment be positive, and will this aspect prevail in the end? That is what we hope for our aspirants who already know where they belong as concerns important aspects decisive for the success of their life. We grant them the possibility to make a success of it; they are privileged people."
