My dear son,

"You are not forgotten, we were awaiting your appeal. We follow you in all your actions, whether they are of a spiritual or a material nature, both being bound, since the Mission critically needs capital to establish itself in the world. We understand your worry in this respect.

"Be very prudent as regards an investment fund. In the long term, there will be big upheavals on the money markets. Especially at the European level, they will show fluctuations that will generate unexpected turnarounds on the big world markets, whose stock will undergo the resulting effect. A collapse of the whole present economic system is to be feared in the future. Do not make long-term commitments, seize opportunities of the moment without committing yourself further; it is necessary to remain prudent. Remain very vigilant about the Mission funds.

"My dear son, you are the trustee of a very powerful spiritual power and of that very precarious one of having at your disposal funds that concern the Mission as a whole. Act now with the greatest caution, since the future depends on that. Your caution will prove to be judicious. You have our support; you are very gifted for all these negotiations in which you excel, but that remain subjected to the vagaries of the times.

"We did not choose the easiest thing for you with respect to our medium; the distance and especially the language constitute a handicap. This choice was not based on those conveniences, as the gift was not the only criterion in this matter. The system in place is nevertheless satisfactory, until a meeting that will eliminate your respective modesties and facilitate your future exchanges.

"This meeting will permit you to be informed about, and take cognizance of, all those messages that have accumulated over the years, and which you could benefit from when the contact has been actually established between both of you.

"You have all our blessings, my dear son."
