Sunday, February 7, 1999 – 9:40 a.m.

Yes, we are here, the source has not dried up. We notice that our messages have an impact on your women friends; that is good. We would like them to be disseminated more widely, but it is too soon. Minds are not sufficiently open. Imagine a little what would happen if they were read at the ashram, the reactions this would produce if one discovered their origin; it's unthinkable. What matters for the moment is that they are well understood by a few people and passed along through conversations or specific exchanges these people may have. Meditate, my child, we will resume later. Stop thinking negatively. Why would you not be able to receive us properly today? It's a lack of faith on your part. Raise your thought, come and rejoin us at high levels; all will be simpler. You see how the sky becomes brighter as you elevate yourself. Appreciate it, my child, taste the delights of your soul. It is always in such moments that we have the best contacts.

The Medium: O Babuji, what a marvel to glide like this!

You see the outcome of ten years of perseverance, and what you derive from it today. Pray that the beings you love may reach this level, but don't forget the others, the multitude that is so far from spiritual joys.

Imagine your life without this dimension, could you withstand what your body has been going through for such a long time? Where would you be? Think about that and ask tirelessly for faith and love to spread over the Earth. The salvation of peoples can only come from there. How many human beings can understand it? How many lives will it take to bring them to this stage of evolution? You are lucky, you abhyasis, who are on an effective path, if you take the trouble to use it properly. As I have told you, you do not like effort. Human beings of your time would like everything to fall from the sky for them. Everything actually can fall from the sky for them; with will power, with perseverance, they may well achieve it! Set yourself a goal in this life. Try to go as far as possible. Don't neglect your abhyas – these are your best means of advancement. Look back, see how far you have come; whatever your attainment, would you want to return to the starting point? We follow your pathway, we help you as best we can, but we cannot 'do' for you.

Be blessed in your undertakings. Repetitions are necessary. You are not computers; data must be reprogrammed time and again. That is the way it is, so don't be surprised if we keep coming back to the same issues.

Each one receives according to one's needs; it's up to you to make it bear fruit.

The Medium: Babuji, I am so disturbed today; have I understood you well?

Listen, do you hear? You are unleashing laughter, so, laugh with us, that will relax you. You are a pathological doubter, anyway... we bless you.

Babuji