Beloved Master
Revered Babuji Maharaj

Whispers from The Brighter World

Thursday, February 11, 1999 – 4:00 a.m.

Yes, you understood it well, my child, ours is a relationship of love.

It is your love that has touched me and not your merits. You know this.

Love overcomes everything. There is no total love without purity and surrender. Everything was said in the book My Master, written by my son. Read it again, be continually inspired by it; let it be your bedside book. It is written with great simplicity and accuracy. It was inspired. Develop this quality in yourself, become love; it opens all the doors, including those of our hearts. Thank Anne-Marie for her work.

(4:30 p.m.)

We were interrupted, but you see there is always material for us to communicate. As long as you can, we will do it. The spiritual path is a long journey, thorny, difficult at times. It requires a great deal of perseverance; everything has always to be redone again and again. But it is the same for material tasks, which merely ensure your livelihood.

Spiritual work also is endless, but it will bring you to the state of pure spirit.

Babuji