Whispers from The Brighter World
A Third Revelation

Friday, September 7, 2001 - 8:00 a.m.

The resources of the inner self are infinite. They are a potential world that does not know its own limits, since it is connected to infinity. The incarnation of human nature is only a process towards man's perfection and unification with the whole. Man, in his fragility, cannot suspect which stake he is involved in. It is about a combat, edifying in many respects and from which he must emerge victorious. All these considerations do not mean a thing to you. It is not easy for a human being to understand all the subtleties that govern the real meaning of [a being's] life on this Earth.

"He [a human being] is only a minuscule dot in this boundless set up; how could he find his bearings beyond his own limitations? He is sometimes disconcerted by life on Earth; he does not understand all its aspects and wonders about the meaning of his own existence. The best-informed ones have reference marks, related to the vagaries of the many reincarnations they went through. Building on these elements, they manage to grasp the importance of each return to life, here below. They make sure that their existence is full of true values that will accompany them and form part, forever, of their history."
