Saturday, September 8, 2001 - 10:00 a.m.

My son is going through a difficult path; whatever the level of realisation, life does not spare anybody. The sense of service must prevail over everything. For what other reason would these beings you call Masters return to this Earth? It takes a lot of love, courage and abnegation to be completely devoted to this great and divine mission. Humanity cries its suffering; there are many reasons for it: intolerance, arrogance, and greed for gain, which inevitably yield karmic effects.

"This is endless; it is necessary to change hearts, failing to change the laws and practices established in this world. Our efforts are focused on this point; it is a phenomenal work that cannot succeed quickly. We must nevertheless prepare future times and preserve some solid strongholds which will not only resist under the storm, but also become the headlights of the world to come. You also should strive to contribute in your own way to the preparation of this reign of peace and beauty."

Babuji