Thursday, September 13, 2001 - 8:00 AM

Where will the cruelty of human beings stop? It is innate with many of them and starts appearing since childhood, by pulling out beetles' wings, or even by torturing poor defenceless animals. It can go on in adulthood up to the point of the excesses that we know today and that comes close to collective madness. These acts are facilitated by a high technology, which allows them to devise satanic plans. They will do anything to satisfy the hatred and spirit of revenge they are filled with.

"It is a vicious circle, which will not have an end and will have sooner or later to be stopped by a power from outside this planet that will not have any other means to stop this dangerous escalation harmful to the balance of the universe.

"The basic instincts of human nature are difficult to counter. The use of force should be obvious one day to establish an order of peace and love, profitable to all creatures on this Earth.

"Pray for this advent."

Babuji