Whispers from The Brighter World
A Third Revelation

Monday, October 8, 2001 - 10:00 a.m.

In creation, man is a large-scale predator. Nothing stops him; he has many motivations. At all costs, he has to demonstrate his power, his thirst for domination – [out of] interest and [for] all good reasons, according to his statements – to justify destruction.

"It is not easy for you to remain objective: you do not have the full picture, in which case it is better to abstain from judging. Try not to cultivate hatred in you; it is a poison that destroys man. Continue on your way while trying to comply with the sense of wisdom that develops in you through your personal research.

"Work towards good; the great trends of societies are beyond you. Do not let yourself be dragged into activities where you do not have your place. Be wary of false prophets, so-called defenders of the people who do nothing but confuse their fellow creatures. Be vigilant in the future; try to remain clear-headed without falling under the influence of leaders driven by an overweening ego meant to satisfy their pride.

"You should, in all circumstances, remain as points of stability with perspicacity in your appreciations and wisdom acquired through your spiritual path."
