Whispers from The Brighter World
A Third Revelation

Wednesday, October 10, 2001 - 10:00 a.m.

In the future, human values will have to be reconsidered altogether. The value of a man is not gauged by his social status, his ambient environment, or his race. Pride is at the root of all distinctions being made in this world. The poor do not have the recognition of the rich. The affluent think a lot of their own person and generally do not have any consideration for the poor wretch who does not find any favour with them. This world is a cruel university for all, and a fearsome one according to the results obtained by each one, regarding their sense of discernment and conduct in general.

"All is recorded and considered in an equitable way. Actions are taken into account. The method is faultless; it is not based on a computerised system, which can be faulty and which in the times to come will be a great worry to the users. These rules – concerning the way of recording [in the books] human actions – are highly inspired and lie within the framework of a universal process. Humans must try to think and act in the most right way possible, by considering that they are working for their own salvation themselves, under the eye of God the Almighty."
