My dear sister, let us escape for a moment the realities of this world. We will move on together for a while, as per the wish of your Beloved guide, by exploring the various aspects of the human race as it stands currently. The picture is not heartening.

"We are not strangers to one another; we met in very remote times when life was not measured by the bank account, and other values were prevailing. You were a worshiper of the divinity prevailing during those trying times – harsh in terms of surviving famine and epidemics – when compassion was not an empty word.

"The evolution of mankind did not take place in the right direction. It went off course and reached excesses that are currently plaguing it.

"It will be necessary to go back to square one. When the crucial moment has come, the Great Being chosen by the Almighty will appear on the Earth to place it on the final path of its evolution and to try to trigger the supreme mutation that will change the face of this world. As you can figure out, life on this Earth is entering a decisive phase for its future. By partaking in this great process one also contributes to the beginning of a vast revolution, unprecedented in the past. May your love and your faith carry you, my dear sister."
