Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fourth Revelation

Monday, October 29, 2001 - 8:00 a.m.

Faith is an expression of love. It is a heart's appeal for unity with the Whole, and for the majority of humans, it makes reference to the religion of their choice, which generally depends on the part of the world where they live. Thus, the soul finds an echo suited to its inspiration. It already conquered this noble treasure and aspires to express itself in the form a human being may want to give it.

"It can thus continue its rise, leading its fight, out of reach of the variations which man's heart can experience. The soul is immortal and it is eager to preserve its asset, whatever the storms an incarnate being must face. The main thing must be spared; this good is intangible, as it emanates from God.

"You should well understand that the best part of your self does not belong to you. You must respect it and give it all the chances to open out, to grow and go further and further towards unity.

"You must do everything possible to preserve this treasure. It is the only good that cannot be fundamentally lost, for it is beyond human will; its essence is divine."
