Whispers from The Brighter World
A Fourth Revelation

Sunday, November 11, 2001 - 10:00 a.m.

Inevitably, men will turn to spirituality; it is in the order of things. Times are changing, slowly, but the process is well under way. All is taking place at the pace envisaged; nothing is left to chance. Man is astonished: why this, why that? He does not understand the divine laws. He brings everything back to his small person, and the more he remains focused on it in this frame of mind, the less he understands.

"He cannot admit that he belongs to a coherent whole, although appearances may lead him to think the opposite.

"He believes he is strong, free, and independent; he is nothing of the sort. His small life, which he believes he is running, leads him to where he could not have imagined going. That is how it goes; he must accept it. No man is all-powerful; he is only the victim of an illusion. He should realise how he is very small and powerless to change the world, except when he is chosen to make it advance in one direction or another. Good and evil have a mixed perception in the eyes of humans, according to their life view. They are continuously subjected to influences that distort their judgement, which they believe to be sound.

"They are a mere representation of their own destiny."
