A Fourth Revelation

Perseverance, rigour, surrender and love – these are the key words of a spiritual life that evolves around these relevant principles. Love is a basic concept: it is the open sesame to all doors.

"All has its importance. The material life is made up of details; that which concerns us here is driven by the many workings that make it evolve. A spiritual process has a specific goal: to free oneself from the cycle of reincarnations. This is what makes an aspirant grow stronger. He knows where his efforts are geared: to progressing, freeing himself and uniting completely with God.

"Moving towards mergence with the Ultimate: is this programme sufficiently inspiring? As time passes, the aspiration is increasingly pressing.

"A very strong call is felt, which makes the rest devoid of interest.

"The soul becomes insistent in its need of communion with the eternal, when it has reached this stage of evolution.

"Man must follow, he feels small. Carried by this enthusing inner force, he aspires only to mergence. This is the achievement of his search."
