You see how much honest mediums can do good for those around them! You belong to this category, my daughter.

"It would be high time for the world to finally know that these means of communication are feasible. This is how God wants things to be: people must open up to this reality and not remain stuck any more in aberrant systems of thought which hold in contempt this method of approach to parallel worlds. This awareness could help Earthmen to free themselves from the throes of sorrow due to the loss of loved ones.

"What you call death does not exist; time has come for this irrefutable fact to be known and admitted. Beliefs of another time endure at a time when the progress of science is real, although it often goes astray on paths leading to serious errors.

"The mortal coil carries on its evolutionary cycle in matter – in perpetual renewal and transformation.

"Life continues, it is, and is not stopped by the breakdown of the physical body. This end would be very restrictive with regard to the greatness of the universe. Where would the divine power lie in this sketch of life, discontinued and finally without raison d'être?

"God is great; the created world is in His image – including the smallest manifested form."
