Whispers from The Brighter World
A Third Revelation

Thursday, February 14, 2002 - 8:00 a.m.

The path of a true mystic reads: love, abnegation and devotion. It cannot be otherwise; this frame of mind is the basis for all his actions. His heart is offered to Divinity, towards which all his impulses are geared. Great beings resemble each other; they share the same common values, the same commitments and an unfailing faith. They set an example for the seeker who can see them as models, some of which particularly inspire him. The light cannot remain hidden; it comes out to the eyes of those whose hearts are open and who are seeking their way. God bestows all graces on some souls; they are torches that illuminate the world and make it a better world. There are too few of them, but their influence is great; distances don't matter to them.

"God makes His choices so that humanity can have this recourse. In His great kindness, He feels pity for His children who are struggling to emerge from this cesspool and to come out of it with increased stature. Such is the prospect that is taking shape in this great project: leading man to rise while going through the ordeal by a purifying fire. Only souls having come a sufficiently long way can understand these reasons, which are to bring man to a higher stage."
