Sunday, April 4, 1999 - 8:00 a.m.

Easter

If you do not play the game, we will not be able to take you along with us. You must trust in us completely, because at a certain level, this is an essential condition. Work becomes increasingly subtle. There must be a kind of complicity between the aspirant and the Master. It is a very specific work, which requires some attention. The Master and the disciple are bound to one another. We told you enough about surrender. It is not enough to say: 'I am surrendered'. Being completely so is a true act of faith, a very profound commitment. You have to become very malleable. Do you want to be like that and to let yourself be shaped in our image? It is a choice; it's up to you to see. We do not force anybody."

Babuji