[Easter]

his beautiful Christian holiday has become by and large a pagan feast. It should be considered with respect. See it as the beginning of a period of renewal, where you all leave your old habits behind and try to start again on a sound basis, in your daily lives, by giving a choice place to spirituality.

It is not a one-day effort. May spring, this explosion of nature, witness the same work being done in you.

Let a beautiful mystical impulse blossom in your souls and see it grow stronger with the passing days like the bud that becomes a flower and then a fruit.

Think of the book, "Fruit of the Tree", written by my son.

Let it inspire all of you in this period when nature is taking on new life.

Mould new habits in yourselves which will strengthen your will and forge a kind of armour to start again on good footing towards the goal to be reached.
