Whispers from The Brighter World
A Third Revelation

Thursday, March 7, 2002 - 10:00 a.m.

As soon as you regain strength, you resume work with ardour. Your heart enthuses in doing so, it glides, happy to find its usual rhythm. This food is essential for it. One day – we hope so – the same will apply for a great number of our candidates, who will have overcome the barriers of incomprehension and ignorance.

"All that can enthuse the soul is favourable to your progress. All these messages are accumulating so that one day, each one of our brothers will find in them a sentence, a thought likely to awaken within them positive feedback that will help them in their search and bring light to them – just like headlights cast light on the bumps of the road. There is no pretence of your learning everything through these messages. What you have acquired before arriving in our way, plus the reading of our books, has opened your minds to knowledge so as to better benefit from the work being carried out in you through sadhana. These messages have another objective: they touch the right chord in you and make it vibrate in unison, in harmony with the subtle being residing in your heart. Everything that can facilitate your progress should be considered. We are applying ourselves to give the best to you. That is how great liberated souls work to help you to not neglect any detail which is likely to uplift you."
