Whispers from The Brighter World
A Third Revelation

Wednesday, March 13, 2002 - 10:00 a.m.

Believe me, worries are necessary to man; how would his life be without them?

"Only joys would make it monotonous. All the resources of a person must manifest themselves; it is by dint of this that his personality is shaped. It is the richness of this palette that enables him to face up to the vagaries. He develops himself while leading his life; his experiences are formative and necessary, their diversity makes him richer.

"The set up of his incarnation is decided in advance, you know it; he cannot avoid it. Man is caught in a spiral, which will end only with him. One would better accept willingly all that presents itself, and see in it the finger of God. There is no point rebelling; such behaviour tarnishes the end result. Making the most of all the situations gives unequalled strength. Controlling one's life with such good sense makes it more worthwhile. We repeat ourselves tirelessly; we would like these truths to be imprinted in you and help you each day to endure the nuisances that may arise. We will soon put an end to these constantly renewed speeches. The crop is full of words and we hope that it has helped you to become wiser, you all who read us with patience."
