Tuesday, March 26, 2002 - 8:00 a.m.

The birth anniversary of my arrival in the world will influence the life of my son; it will take on a new meaning. He will take an important step forward. The human being advances in this life, which is marked by events that utterly transform it sometimes. Generally, a fact, an encounter, a trip or any other opportunity is enough for it to change course. You all experienced this kind of situation. Did that encourage you to take stock, to reflect on the meaning of this incarnation? All that happens to you has its raison d'être. You are not necessarily aware of it immediately but that is how your destiny is accomplished. The day you took your first step in our way had a specific importance. Since then, by persevering in your search, you have come a long way that has changed your life in an irreversible way, though without it being visible. The sadhana gives it a new meaning, propelling it on to subtler levels enriching your spirituality. The time will come when you will take stock of this existence and you will be happy that you made this choice."

Babuji