Whispers from The Brighter World

A Third Revelation

Tuesday, April 2, 2002 - 10:00 a.m.

These messages, as we have said and repeated, will help men, especially in the difficult times that humanity will have to experience in the future. Many calamities will fall down upon the Earth and they will necessarily have to be faced up to. In the initial stages, the instinct to survive will prevail. Thereafter, man will have to again rediscover an ancestral ingenuity, whereby he will be compelled to involve himself personally at all levels. Certain areas of the world will be particularly affected, which will cause important disturbances in this mechanised and excessively computerised society. Returning to the sources, the human being will again find forgotten practices that will compel him to show ingenuity. He will have to leave aside his existential problems, as he will be confronted with material difficulties relating to his everyday life, which he will not be able to escape. Being before himself, having lost his bearings – as he is so conditioned from dawn to sunset by modern life and the habits it has created in him – he will have to take a good look at himself and, more simply, to rethink his existence. May he, when these times come, receive the insight likely to help him."
