Life is like a play. You can be cast as a bad guy or a good one, but once the play is over, what remains of it? If you are good, be so truly; the bad guy may not be completely so. It all has its usefulness in the world of maya; this is called the balance of forces. Be assertive in your perception of things. Do not be in judgement. Advance simply by divesting yourself of superfluity; do as best you can. Be trustful in the successful outcome of your life."
