The Medium: "Babuji, my happiness is there, on this table, with you, when I write under your inspiration. Time does not exist any more, and you only illuminate the place. You lead me into another space, far from the lowness of this world, within your very special vibration where I would like to remain."

The time has not come yet, my child; it is necessary to continue. We know that this life weighs on you, but you must remain in it; deserting it would not serve your cause. Prepare yourself inwardly for the commemoration of this birthday that our associates are eager to celebrate. They are right; by divine grace, it is a large scale blessing being extended on to the world in these moments when faith and love can be answered. All that develops in the hearts sincerely creates a special vibration that forms the égrégore capable, one day, of changing the Earth. Everyone benefits from gatherings driven by such impulses. We support them; they are useful to humans who greatly need them. In these times of terror, established in certain countries where men do not want to disarm, we can only bless and protect all initiatives aimed at maintaining love and peace in the hearts. Beware of them, preserve yourself from the turpitudes of this world; maintain in your heart the sacred flame. You are a special 'scribe'; your functions go well beyond. They cannot be defined here; what would be the point in that? Does surrender not surpass all these concepts? To love is your vocation; remain in your remit. Such capabilities must be preserved. We appreciate being loved; it is the law of life. This kind of love goes beyond this world where it has a different definition altogether. Glide freely in this space where you revel in; here, you find your bearings. Your vocation, divested of the attributes of this world, remains ignored by it. Continue on your path, making forays into other levels, not actually accessible by men. You hold this special code, which clears your way to a space where humans don't venture. Some privileged people have access to it. You do not glory in it; it is one of the reasons facilitating the entry. To remain humble is the thing to be done; to continue serving us like that is part of your mission."
