Whispers from The Brighter World
A Third Revelation

Thursday, May 2, 2002 - 10:00 a.m.

Man is a Lilliputian, presumptuous enough to believe that his knowledge is great. These experiments are harmful to the balance of the worlds. He is oblivious to the evil caused by himself, and cannot admit that these tests of all sorts are dangerous, which includes humanity who is the first to suffer from the ensuing consequences, whether visible or not. This frenzy of domination will have to stop suddenly one day, as there is the risk of causing even bigger dramas, if it is not controlled. We have already said it, man on this Earth is the biggest predator; this is nothing to be proud of. The sages try to thwart their madness; they only succeed partially. The excessive ego of the researchers drives them into risky adventures. We cannot stop the march of time. Other civilisations, too audacious, ended up being wiped out. This phenomenon is neither unique nor new. You whose ambition is to perfect yourself and advance in true knowledge – that which relates to the great divine truths – you are going in the right direction, distant from these devastating turpitudes. Be blessed for that."
