Whispers from The Brighter World
A Third Revelation

Sunday, May 5, 2002 - 8:00 a.m.

Resign yourself to it; you are and you will remain, misunderstood until the end of your life. You live in this world, but in a way, you do not belong to it any more; therefore be patient. You see that politics is a bad counsellor; it kindles passions and it blinds citizens who thrive on hatred, one towards another, as they ignore realities. Continue, as you have always done, to keep away from these turbulences. Politics is an unhealthy game and men who indulge in it are not saints – neither one nor the other. Continue your own struggle; it is more effective. There remains nothing from all this verbal jousting except for negative vibrations, which the Earth does not need.

"It needs respect, tolerance and honesty among beings. This idyllic world is not for tomorrow. Men are immature and slaves of their passions. They have yet a long way to go before they acquire true generosity, and the spirit of sharing. By standing against one another, they exorcise their own demons that make them deluded by realities – all of which are equally false in this world of illusion to which they are subjected."
