My dear daughter, it is actually about 'soaring.' The time has come for your Master, to have the pleasure of going into these many messages to acquaint himself with them. This fact will be a significant milestone in our Mission. He will not minimize their importance.

"My son is a man of decision; he can take them at the right moment. We do trust him. He has managed to run the Mission in a masterly fashion.

"His successors will have qualities that will be appropriate for the specific actions of their time. Our views go very far into the future. It is the force given to us to act according to divine plans and make sure that they are achieved, at all costs.

"All must be done slowly, at the pace envisaged, to give us satisfaction. Human beings are impatient; our apparent slowness can exasperate them, but that is how it is. Their judgments are distorted permanently. They believe they know, but they do not know it.

"Our remedy for that is always the same one: confidence, surrender and faith in God and his blessed servants whose brief is to represent Him."
