Monday, June 10, 2002 - 10:00 a.m.

Rest assured, our hearts have been united for a long time, well before this last incarnation. So will it always be. The end of these messages does not mean that our bonds will be broken, quite to the contrary. They will be strengthened through those bonds that will be created between my son and you. Everything changes and is transformed on Earth; things belonging to our world do not vary. Our love story will remain as it is, immutable. We will not insist any further today; spare yourself. Be at peace."

Babuji