Whispers from The Brighter World

The Medium: Babuji, was I mistaken about my favourite saint?

No, she is a great and beautiful soul. You have a bond, you love each other. You will not know more about this.

You are a privileged person, I've already told you. It is this flame that burns within you that attracts and retains; only love can do that.

From the top to the bottom of the universal scale, it is like the blood that flows in your veins; without it, there would be no life!

When divine nature overrides human nature, it is the apotheosis.

This is where love leads.
