Monday, June 24, 2002 - 10:00 a.m.

All these current torments will be forgotten one day. What will they represent in the future? Do they take away from you what is essential in your spiritual life and for our contacts? We nevertheless understand your concerns; your life is easy only on the surface. You are not assisted, as you should be, to cope with your daily chores. We appreciate that you remain receptive to listen to us. One day, your brothers and sisters will be able to find comfort in reading these greatly simple messages through which they will be able to feel all our attention and understanding towards them. We are not judges steeped in our prerogatives, only chosen ones who work to help humanity. It needs to be helped; our compassion is great and it is used advisedly. Your calls justify our combats. They are pressing; appalling cries reach us, of which you do not have any idea. Think of these beings hunted, famished or subjected to torture. There are many of them on this Earth. We do not want to draw an alarmist picture, but humanity is suffering atrociously in many areas of the sphere. Suffering is everywhere in all countries; it is hidden, generally, but it exists. Think of it, you who have the recourse of faith."

Babuji