Saturday, August 3, 2002 - 10:00 a.m.

What must be will be, when God so pleases. Your Master will be able to make the necessary decisions. This act, when it occurs, will be courageous, given the general lack of open-mindedness on the issue. All this does not overly worry you; you are advancing, my daughter. Your heart is becoming lighter; it is soaring like a hot-air balloon carried by the wind. It flies over the human framework, trying more and more to see only the beautiful. Stick to this process; detach yourself as much as possible from the miasmas of this world. Do what you have to and devote the remainder of your energy to the spiritual work that unites you more and more with us. Be at peace."

Babuji