Whispers from The Brighter World
A Third Revelation

Saturday, August 10, 2002 - 10:00 a.m.

My son needs to take a good rest; his workload is becoming exhausting. Our associates overwhelm him with their personal worries and those concerning the Mission. Humans are not simple in their behaviour. All could be simple if they actually wanted to try hard and, especially, to dissociate the material from the spiritual. Many of them have not understood yet where their priorities are and, especially, the principal function of their Master, who should be freed from the chores of everyday life of least importance. Our aspirants must become adult, and understand that a Master must act within a precise framework, characterising his mission on this Earth. He cannot give of his energy continuously to sort out human problems, which constantly renew and are outside his remit. The Mission is taking gigantic steps forward; our brothers must understand the true meaning of the mission of a very special being like their Master, who also keeps growing. He desires to find some peace to achieve, in all its splendour, that which he came into this world for, while continuing to praise God and his revered gurus."
