Monday, August 26, 2002 - 10:00 a.m.

Your love for your Master makes me happy. You two, so dear to my heart, you have eventually embarked on the desired way for the achievement of the divine choices. You are two personalities, strong and determined in your choices; we know that the choice of uniting you in this vision of love and in its expression will not weaken. A fervent flame is burning in your hearts that nothing here below will be able to subdue. You are united by highly sacred bonds; you do not belong to yourselves any more. So it is, by divine will."

Babuji