Whispers from The Brighter World
A Third Revelation

Tuesday, August 27, 2002 - 10:00 a.m.

our heart thrives on our words, so you say. It is true. It is used to hearing them, and it has become necessary for it. It does not weary of our repetitions. It needs it, and it is obvious to it, which helps it in its development. Until the end of this life on Earth, the soul seeks assistance. It can find it in many ways, according to its aspiration and its real need to evolve. Reading is one of these means; there is a large variety of means. It must answer a profound call, which tries to manifest itself when man knows how to pay attention to it. Very often, man does not realise it; he has better things to do and prefers to devote himself to human activities devoid of interest for his evolution, and he manages to remain deaf to what is trying to challenge him. When eventually he can listen, a natural view of his existence takes shape for him. It remains for him to persevere in this discovery that will fill his heart with joy."
