Saturday, April 24, 1999 - 8:00 a.m.

My child, you have kept a little joy in your heart, it is well. We cannot change anything in our Earthly course. We should rejoice about the good aspects in it.

"In one week from now, spangles of light will dance in the sky. I wish you could see them with the eyes of your heart and feel them vibrating in you. There is so much horror on the Earth; when a spiritual event of this scale occurs, one has every reason to be happy. Our brothers have well understood the importance of it and have prepared themselves as best they could. For the next centenary, the face of the world will have changed, but that does not concern you, it is a distant future. In the meantime, many upheavals will occur, but the Immutable one, the Eternal, will not be affected.

'These are mere incidents in the order of the universe:

" 'Live, die, this order will not be modified.'

"You should consider yourself as being a negligible dot in this great set up."

Babuji