Whispers from The Brighter World
A Third Revelation

Wednesday, November 27, 2002 - 10:00 a.m.

Scribes take note of what is dictated to them without necessarily having qualms about what they write. Becoming incarnate, even for the greatest beings, is also letting oneself be taken in by the game of life and its movement; we all have experienced that. Here, where we are, our horizon is vaster and is not restricted, on any account, to the vagaries of the Earthly life. There is nothing else to say about that; we have expressed ourselves on a specific aspect that is close to our heart, that's all.

"My dear daughter, you love the Mission like all of us, and your heart would like to protect it from what could do disservice to it. We appreciate your faithfulness and your perseverance in this feeling of uprightness, and your surrender to your guides.

"Many other hearts share the same feeling as you, and act on their part from the same viewpoint. It is true that men like distorting what is offered to them with greatest easiness, being driven towards that by their inventiveness. Rest assured, pure and determined hearts don't change, and don't seek to innovate in a system like ours, which is self-sufficient. The principles inculcated in them, help them in a process where, precisely, it is good to divest oneself of useless aspects. We all must make sure that things are like that."
