Whispers from The Brighter World

Sunday, April 25, 1999 – 10:00 a.m.

One should never despair of humans; one must believe in divine mercy. All is not lost; the fate of the Earth will perhaps be mitigated.

God, who knows well the hearts of human beings, knows that they are not so bad, by and large.

Many of them are caught in the spiral of violence and can no longer stop. They are trapped in a kind of swirl, which leaves them with no choice.

Pray, pray for this storm to calm down. We want to make you all aware of the cause of this evil; counter it with the strength of your faith in God and the love you feel growing in you.

With time, this is a great movement that can help the world.

Be well aware of its strength and of the tool at your disposal.

We, your Masters, are with you; answer our call. Help us with what you think you can give us.

That's all!
