Whispers from The Brighter World
A Third Revelation

Thursday, December 5, 2002 - 10:00 a.m.

All men on the Earth are equal whatever their social standing, their race and their intellectual capabilities; it is only the karmic law that decides on this. No one should pride themselves on their success; they should only be thankful for living an enlightening experience. It can be so on all levels; it is enough to try to live it well and to understand its hidden meaning. The laws of life, here below, don't spare anybody; sooner or later, they manifest themselves indiscriminately. Kings or beggars, all are struck by the stroke of fate, even if the modality is different. Only the way of love and wisdom is offered to all, without any possible barriers. Any one can love God, can serve Him. Acting for the good is feasible by any human being ready to do so. His spiritual process unfolds concomitantly with the vagaries of life, which, if they are properly understood, can foster their acceptance. A wise man tries to understand why he must undergo tests, without developing any feeling of injustice. Only surrender can make him put up with this existence when he seems to be dogged by destiny. Times change the way of life, but the divine laws are immutable. They will remain like that until the end of the centuries, and man will have to conform to them; it is in the nature of things."
